CD Mmm.

TRACEY A Um, on one occasion and I do, I have written this in my, it was mentioned in my, which I'll tell you about later, but my affidavit for the divorce. [Um, and a big thing has been made about it on his website, so I want to explain it to you.]

CD Yeah.

TRACEY I said in my affidavit for the divorce court that I can remember, um, being in bed in the lounge and seeing mum at the kitchen sink.

CD Okay.

TRACEY B Well, I don't know whether mum was actually stood at the kitchen sink or not.

CD Yeah.

TRACEY Or whether she was stood next to the draining board or whether she was stood further down the side.

CD Yeah.

TRACEY But, basically, there was a direct vision through to the back, back door, front door, back door you could see straight through and the kitchen sink was off of the back door.

CD Right.

TRACEY And I can remember seeing the back of my mum.

CD Right.

TRACEY And I'm pretty sure she was packing honey, they used to buy great big tubs, like, 30 gallon tubs of honey.

CD Right.

TRACEY And sterilise the jars and then pack the honey into the jars.

CD Right.

TRACEY And I can remember seeing the back of my mum, with her back to me in the kitchen packing honey. So she may have been just towards the end of the sink, rather than actually at the kitchen sink. (A)
