- FLEUR Um, I can remember, I don't, as I say I don't remember whether it happens, whether I get confused, whether it's being one incident, or I'm trying to split two or three incidents up, and, and I can remember him lying on, on, it would have been my bedroom, lying on the bed, and it, I look back at it and think it was doctors and nurses, but it wasn't doctors and nurses it was like, "Do you know what this part of your body's called?" And he'd point to his knee, and then he'd point to his arm, "What's this called?" And then he'd point to his chest, and then he'd point to his penis, and ask me, and then I had, it was roll reversed, so he then asked me if I knew what all my parts of the body were called.
- CD Mmm hmm.
- 10 12 43 FLEUR Um, and that's my first recollection of any, sort of, abuse that I didn't obviously know what was going on then.
- CD Right. So to be a bit more specific about that in particular then, um, describe the scenario that you'd be in, I mean you said you'd be on the bed, lying on the bed, um, describe how you're clothed.
- FLEUR Yeah. I think I had a nightie on, or something like that, um, I can remember lying in the bed, and the, sort of, headboard would be behind me, and the window was behind me, and then the, the, um, bedroom door was in front ...
- CD Mmm hmm.
- FLEUR ... and there's him sort of kneeling, or something, on the side, by the side of the bed.
- CD Yeah.
- FLEUR Um, yeah.
- CD And you, you said that he would be pointing to parts of his own body initially, and asking you what those things were.
- FLEUR Yeah. I can remember him laid on the bed as well pointing.
- CD Okay.
- 10 13 51 FLEUR But as I say I can't remember what, which incident came first, or whether it was the same day, or, you know, whether he was laid on the bed and I had to, you know, tell him what parts of the body, you know, were called.
