Dear Sirs,

Your client Mr. James Colton

A copy of your letter addressed to Messrs Avis Cutmore, Solicitors dated the 18th February 1999 has been handed to me by Mrs. Colton. The contents to some extent are, as you will appreciate, of little interest to me but for the following points.

At no time during my interview with your client was he working in the "Copy Cat" shop. The interview took place at the matrimonial home between your client, myself, my assistant and later we were joined by Mrs. Colton. The meeting was "without prejudice", the effect of this was clearly explained to your client in no uncertain terms and repeated by me from time to time.

At no time did I try to coerce your client to admit to the allegations made against him by his two step-daughters. Like yourselves, I can only act on instructions, and I have a witness who was present throughout the meeting and will confirm what has been previously stated.

Yours faithfully,
